THE NO BELL TOUR

Take me to the river

Panta rhei

Panta rhei. Everything flows.
Does it really?

We made the above words of Heraclitus of Ephesus the leitmotif of our "walking scenario".

The pilgrimage along the Jeziorka river will become a pretext for various considerations: philosophical, linguistic, natural. There will also be some Italian accents in this trip.

Thursday, 22nd of September, Research project „Living in PRL”
(*the Polish People's Republic)

During your stay at No Bell school you will have an occasion to move to the 1980s and 90s.

This day will be the summary of reading the book - "Tales from the carpet hunger. A short story of one photo" by Paulina Tyczkowska.

The book shows the children's life in the 1980s and 1990s - the time when our pupils' parents and teachers were kids themselves.

The book describes various curiosities, anecdotes and absurdities of life in the days of the decline of communism in Poland and the emerging democracy in our country.

We will be playing with children the games their parents used to play when they were kids, before the computer era. Will be watching fashion, listening to the music and cooking the meals described in the book.

All will be engaged in the project - kids, teachers, parents and you, if you wish of course!

Would be great if you show us how life was in Italy in the 1980s and 90s - in photos, tales or fashion. You can take and wear clothes from the bottom of your wardrobes. We are waiting for you!

At 7 pm we invite you for dinner at school.

The No Bell teachers will prepare food that they can do best!
We remember about vegetarians and non lactose ones:)

It will be a time for talks, sharing impressions and experiences.

We are looking forward to hosting you at
